YOUNG GIRL WAS BADLY BURNED

Lucile Smith is Injured When Bucket in Which She Was Making Tea Exploded.

ACCIDENT OCCURRED AT NOON

Face and Arms Were Blistered—One Eye Affected, But Sight Will Not be Destroyed.

Miss Lucile Smith, the fifteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis W. Smith, living in East Tenth street, was painfully burned on the arms and face today at noon when a tin bucket in which she was making tea exploded. The burns, while quite painful are not expected to result seriously and it is said will leave no scars.

The lid on the bucket was on tight and when Miss Smith attempted to pry it open the explosion occurred. It is supposed that the bucket was almost air tight and when the air was admitted the steam expanded. The boiling water and steam got on the girl's arms and face. A small quantity affected one of her eyes but it is said by the attending physician that the sight will not be injured.

The tea was being prepared for dinner and she did not know the water was so hot or the peculiar accident would not have occurred.

A physician was called immediately after the accident and for a time it was thought the injuries might prove serious. Miss Smith suffered great pain, but at a late hour this afternoon was resting as well as could be expected.

MUCH TRIED CASE ON AT GREENSBURG

Celebrated Connelly-Duke Suit to Set Aside Deed is Being Heard in Decatur County.

TO CONSUME SEVERAL DAYS

The case of Lola L. Connelly vs. Walter L. Duke was taken up in the Decatur circuit court in Greensburg yesterday morning. A jury was empanelled Monday and the trial will occupy several days. The case was sent there on change of venue from Rush county, and a number of Rushville attorneys are engaged in the trial. Osborn & Harding of Greensburg are representing the plaintiff, and are associated with Campbell & Hall of this city. Tremain & Turner of Greensburg and Smith, Cambern & Smith, Gary & Sparks, and Megee & Kiplinger of this city are attorneys for the defendants.

The case was brought to set aside a deed to valuable real estate in this county on the ground that the maker was of unsound mind at the time. About $35,000 is involved. A large number of witnesses have been subpoenaed and the trial will consume several days.

A large number of Rush county people, including witnesses and local attorneys went to Greensburg today to attend the trial.

THE WEATHER

Fair and slightly warmer tonight and Wednesday.

TO GO OVER PROPOSED ROUTE

President and I. & C. Directors to Leave Greensburg Monday.

Word has been received in Greensburg that Charles L. Henry, president of the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company, and the directors of the company will go from there in automobiles Monday to inspect the proposed route for extending the line to Cincinnati. They will go by way of Batesville, Morris, Harrison, Ohio, and into Cincinnati. They will return from Cincinnati by way of Hamilton, Ohio, to Connersville, another route which is proposed for the extension.

TOTAL PROCEEDS OF SALE $11,128.75

Managers Find That Most Successful Combination Auction is Held This Year.

HORSES AVERAGED $127 EACH

It was given out this morning by officials of the Rushville Horse Show Company that the total of the sales at the combination sale held at Davis Brothers' sale barn Friday following the horse show amounted to $11,128.75. This is much larger than the proceeds of any previous sale held there. There were seventy-two head of colts and horses sold. They averaged $127 each. In the number thirty were colts and forty-two horses. Besides the horses other stock was sold. The sale bids fair to grow to immense proportions and become a recognized industry in this city. This year there were many more horses sold and they came from adjoining counties, which has been done only in a few cases heretofore.

RUSSIAN EXILE TO GIVE ADDRESS

Alexander Lochwitzky Will Lecture Tomorrow Night at St. Paul M. E. Church.

WILL TALK AT HIGH SCHOOL

What promises to be a lecture of unusual interest will be given tomorrow night in the St. Paul M. E. church by Alexander Lochwitzky, a Russian reformer and political exile. Alexander M. Lochwitzky comes to this city under the auspices of the Epworth League. The subject of his lecture is "The Recent Experiences of a Russian Nobleman in Exile." He is not a Nihilist, but a friend of the common people of Russia and for his activity in founding a free school for peasants he was exiled to "hard labor" on the bleak Saghalian Island, Siberia. He tells in his lecture his terrible experience as an exile and his escape to this country. His intimate knowledge of the inner workings of the Russian Bureaucracy makes a story that is well worth while. Mr. Lochwitzky has consented to address the high school tomorrow afternoon. He will give a talk on "Graft in Russia."

The open season for quail shooting will begin on November 10, and already the local sportsmen are working their dogs out and cleaning and oiling their favorite fowling pieces in expectation of some rare sport. Bird dogs are rather scarce in Rush county this season, as some of them are said to have been poisoned and some have been stolen. The quail crop this season is said to be large in Rush county and in fact all over southern Indiana.

FIRST KILLING FROST APPEARS

Comes Much Later Than Usual and at Time When no Damage is Done.

FREEZING TEMPERATURE ALSO

Due to Weather Conditions This Fall People go After Nuts and Return With Violets.

Jack Frost paid his respects to Rushville last night as evidences of his handiwork were on every hand this morning. It is the first killing frost of the season. It is so late, however, that every growing thing is out of the frost danger zone.

Frost has been predicted several times in the last week by the weather man, but last night or early this morning was the first time he put in his appearance here. It has been said that frost has appeared in low places where the high winds of the night have not swooped down, but those spots are exceptions. Frost was expected sure night before last but did not come.

There is reason to believe that light frosts have come and disappeared before the early risers were up and stirring several nights recently. This belief is upheld by the fact that the leaves on the shade trees all over the city have been taking on a golden hue and have been slowly dropping to the ground.

This fall has been a very unusual one in many ways. The first appearance of a killing was delayed longer this year than it has been for many years. The average time for the first killing frost, according to weather observers who have been keeping figures on conditions, was one day last week.

This fall has been a very unusual one in many respects, when the fact is considered that the second crops of many fruits and vegetables have grown in all parts of the county. This has been due in a great measure to the late appearance of frost and high temperature which has been common all of this fall until recently.

The first freezing temperature in this vicinity came last night. It is said that early this morning the mercury dropped below the freezing point. Water froze in buckets, pans, barrels and all kinds of receptacles.

On account of the conditions this fall many Rushville people have gone out to gather nuts and returned with a bunch of violets. This is a condition which has not existed around here for years. Violets abound in the woods and are really more common than hickory nuts.

Reports come from all over the county of second crops of berries, garden vegetables, flowers blooming for the second time and many other strange freaks of nature. The berry bushes have born fruit for the second time this fall more generally than any other product of the farm.

BIRD DOGS ARE SCARCE

But Quail Crop Promises to be Extra Good.

The open season for quail shooting will begin on November 10, and already the local sportsmen are working their dogs out and cleaning and oiling their favorite fowling pieces in expectation of some rare sport. Bird dogs are rather scarce in Rush county this season, as some of them are said to have been poisoned and some have been stolen. The quail crop this season is said to be large in Rush county and in fact all over southern Indiana.

COUNTY AUDITOR ISSUES LICENSE

Basil Seward Will Open Saloon in Few Days in Old Star Grand Theater Room.

OUT OF COMMISSIONERS HANDS

Special Judge Holds Fraction of One Thousand Inhabitants Entitles City to One More Bar.

Rushville's seventh saloon will be opened in the Donald Smith room in Second street, between Main and Morgan streets where the Star Grand theater was formerly located, by Basil Seward in a very few days. He was granted a license by F. M. Alexander of Brookville in the Fayette circuit court at Connersville yesterday afternoon. Alexander was appointed special judge to hear the case by Judge Gray of the Fayette circuit court.

Basil Seward was granted his license by Special Judge Alexander and he instructed Jesse Stone, Rush county auditor, to issue the license at once. When the parties interested in the case arrived here yesterday afternoon they repaired to the county auditor's office and the license was issued to Seward.

It appears that Judge Gray sidetracked the case and avoided rendering a decision in it after he had taken it under advisement. On Saturday, October 7, the case was argued before Judge Gray of the Fayette circuit court and all of the evidence was heard, according to local officials interested in it. It was announced that afternoon that Judge Gray had taken the case under advisement.

But yesterday instead of announcing a decision in the case, Judge Gray shifted the burden to the shoulders of another. The special judge was appointed, heard the case and somewhat hastily decided in favor of the appellant.

The Proctor law which regulates the saloons in Indiana provides that the population of any given city shall be determined by multiplying the total number of votes cast for the mayoralty candidate in the last election by five, in order to regulate the saloons to a given number.

The total number of votes cast for Mayor B. A. Black and John M. Stevens, the Republican candidate, on November 2, 1909, was 1,331. That number multiplied by five is equal to 6,655, the number of inhabitants which is to be used in deciding the number of saloons in Rushville.

The Rush county commissioners held very naturally, when Seward applied for a license, that since the saloons of Rushville were to be restricted to one for each one thousand inhabitants, there would be no legal right to grant another license. They held that could not be done and com-

NO DELEGATES APPOINTED

Mayor, Commissioners and County Superintendent May Name Them.

Rushville and Rush county is entitled to about a dozen delegates to attend the conservation conference which will be held in Indianapolis at the Claypool hotel. The call for the meeting was issued by Governor Marshall recently. Mayor B. A. Black is allowed the appointment of five delegates, the county commissioners, three delegates, and the county superintendent of the public schools, three delegates. None of the delegates has been appointed as yet. There are a large number of honorary representatives.

Rush County Apples Are Sold on the Indianapolis Market by R. Beaver.

CUTS OUT THE MIDDLEMAN

Father and Brother of This County Are Supplying Him With the Fruit.

Some of those Rush county apples, which were said to be so plentiful that bushels and bushels were rotting on the ground because no one would offer anything for them, are now being sold in Indianapolis. R. Beaver, a garden farmer, whose farm is at Stop 4, on the Plainfield interurban line, just west of the city, has opened a store at 517 Massachusetts avenue, for the sale of his own products and his father and brother, Rush county farmers, are sending him large quantities of apples from their farms and he is selling them along with his own products at his store, says the Indianapolis News.

It will be remembered that during the recent agitation to bring down the high cost of living in this city, apples were selling at outrageously high prices, in spite of the fact that thousands of bushels of apples within a few miles of the city were going to waste. Farmers said the commission men would not offer them anything for their apples, and at the same time the commission men were asking high prices for the apples they had on sale and were telling the people the high prices were due to a short crop.

Beaver has a stand on the market, where he has done business for several years, selling his own vegetables and other products. He also sold much of his stuff at wholesale. He decided recently he could get more for his produce if he would sell all of it direct to the consumer, and that at the same time the consumer would pay him less than he would have to pay for the stuff at the market or at the groceries. So he rented the small store room at 517 Massachusetts avenue and opened it a week ago last Wednesday. He arranged with his father and brother to ship him their apples also from their Rush county farms.

"I have been doing a good business," said Mr. Beaver, "ever since I opened up. I am underselling the groceries and the market stands as well, and yet I am getting more for my stuff than if I would sell it to the commission houses."

ATHLETICS WIN AFTER LONG REST

World's Series is Resumed and Philadelphia Takes Hard Contest by 4 to 2.

ELEVEN HITS OFF MATHEWSON

After an enforced rest of six days, due to the continued rain in Philadelphia, the Giants and the Athletics clashed at Philadelphia this afternoon, the victory going to the Athletics by a score of four to two. New York started out strong with two runs in the first inning, and Philadelphia came back in the fourth inning and put across three. "Home Run" Baker of the Athletics knocked the ball out of the lot in the next inning, and the scoring was finished. Baker has made three home runs during this world's series. Philadelphia needs to win one more game.

Mathewson and Myers worked for New York, and Bender and Thomas were the battery for Philadelphia. N. Y. . . . 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 7 2 Phil 0 0 0 3 1 0 0 0 4 1 1

NAUGHTY! NAUGHTY!

Ft. Wayne News: Frank Hall of Rushville, who it may be said by the way of explanation, is lieutenant governor, declares that he will go before the next Democratic State convention seeking the gubernatorial nomination. It would be interesting to learn just what his object is. He must realize that he can not possibly receive the honor and it is difficult to ascribe his action to a desire for public attention and notoriety. For his candidature will not cause enough of a commotion to secure even a passing notice.

SAYS DAY'S ILLEGAL.

Indianapolis News: Special Judge James A. Leathers in police court yesterday afternoon, in five Discovery day liquor cases, which had been taken under advisement, discharged the defendants on the ground that the act of 1911, making the 12th day of October a legal holiday, is invalid and void.

Keeps Your Stove
"Always Ready for Company"

A bright, clean, glossy stove is the joy and pride of every housekeeper. But it is hard to keep a stove nice and shiny unless Black Silk Stove Polish is used.

Here is the reason: Black Silk Stove Polish sticks right to the iron. It doesn't rub off or dust off. Its shine lasts four times longer than the shine of any other polish. You only need to polish one-fourth as often, yet your stove will be cleaner, brighter and better looking than it has been since you first bought it. Use

Piles Can Be Cured

If you have spent dollar after dollar for apparatus and medicine, you may deem it peculiar that you can be instantly relieved and probably cured for a dime. But it is fact, and after you can prove it with a 10-cent box of Plex, the "quick-healing salve." The results will make you regret that you never tried before.

Plex is a wonder-working, penetrating ointment that destroys germs, cleans and heals like magic. A big box for 10 cents, and it has a hundred uses in every home.

One application cures itching piles. A few more applications cure sore, acning feet, and produce eye-opening results in eczema, dandruff or other skin diseases. Splendid for cuts, burns, etc.

Plex costs only a dime, and it's the biggest household bargain you were ever offered. Your druggist has it, or can easily get it for you. Sent prepaid on receipt or price by the O. C. Co., Terre Haute, Ind.

Town Development

From an experience covering a number of years I am in position to state that there is no one agency which will, or can, develop a city in all of its phases as a well organized and equipped commercial club or a board of trade, says Eugene S. Shanon, secretary of Nashville, Tenn., Board of Trade, in an article in the Town Development magazine.

HAIR HINTS

through its board of trade, realizes that it must buy as well as sell, to be truly commercially great and prosperous, it can never claim the right of doing its full duty. For a town to develop, commercially, she must "swap dollars" with her neighbor cities, and until this is done, no matter how active may be her banks and clearing houses, yet her balances will remain the same. Why, it's simply wearing out the dollars we have.

There are so many splendid ways for a board of trade to develop a city, I only have space to mention a few of them.

First—Have a board of trade; a thorough and comprehensive organization, one in which the "bone and sinew" of the commercial life in the city participates.

Get behind every new movement of the men in the city who have made successes in their own endeavor. Place upon them the responsibility of the organization of the city commercially and let them realize that to fail is only the failure of the organization which they represent. It's the men after all, and unless they are properly selected and entrusted with the work before them their success will necessarily be limited.

Second—Go for big game! You will return oftentimes with an empty bag, but the times where success is crowned amounts to something worthwhile. No matter whether it is a factory, convention, educational institution, go for it with a determination to win. It's the motive power which runs the machinery, and it is the spirit and enthusiasm which spurs men, committees and organizations on to success.

Third—Manufacturing plants, of every kind and description, are usually the first objects of a board of trade. To bring to a city a plant, with all of its machinery, its employees with their families, its bank deposits, buying and transforming into salable articles raw material, is indeed a great adjunct to any city.

Fourth—For a city to be designated as a "convention city" means much. An organization will give that city which has successfully handled conventions in the past more consideration than a city of like importance which has no record of that kind to its credit.

Get conventions!

They meet somewhere, why not in your city?

Bring the people there. Show them what you have. Make a lasting impression upon them and possibly you will influence some of them to locate there—some of them—you can't tell. Not only is a convention advantageous in an advertising way, but in a financial way. Every delegate spends a sum of money—outside money, while he is in the city.

In a recent convention of 300 delegates it was estimated that each of them spent $30, or a sum total of $9,000 outside money and so it goes. The city, through its board of trade, that is not using every effort to get conventions is overloading one of its greatest opportunities.

Fifth—Advertise. As the individual or firm advertise, so must a city likewise advertise. Have a thoroughly capable advertising committee. Use all the means at hand to get the opportunities and resources of the city before the commercial world. Go as far as you can, then raise a sum of money with which to do big things and then show the world around you what you have and how they can use it to profit.

Headaches, Colds, Indigestion, Pains, Constipation, Sour Stomach, Dizziness? If you are not, the most effective, prompt and pleasant method of getting rid of them is to take, now and then, a dessertspoonful of the ever refreshing and truly beneficial laxative remedy—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna. It is well known throughout the world as the best of family laxative remedies, because it acts so gently and strengthens naturally without irritating the system in any way.

To get its beneficial effects it is always necessary to buy the genuine, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., bearing the name of the Company, plainly printed on the front of every package.

Hallowe'en is the Next Holiday for Youngsters

It will not be many more days, on this night of all the year ghosts and witches walked abroad in the land. On or about November first, the young people will have their first real holiday since Labor day, which came, as everybody knows, on the first Monday in September. Of course there was a kind of holiday on October 12, the anniversary of the discovery of America, but it created hardly a ripple on the smooth surface of holidayism. The only effect it had in Rushville was to close the saloons. Even the banks, which are very susceptible to holidays, failed to observe Columbus day.

But the next holiday to come, the one mentioned above, is the real event of the year for the mischievous youngsters, who have had no special degree of latitude since July fourth. It is the evening before All-Saints day, and is commonly called Hallowe'en.

Everybody who has ever been a boy or girl knows all about it. It is the time when Mr. Grump is compelled to wire up his front gate, to set watch dogs and spring guns in his orchard, and to sit up all night watching the windows and the front steps.

Hallowe'en is also the occasion when witches and sprites are supposed to run at large. And in commemoration of this event it is the custom of young people in Rushville to mask for the occasion, using all kinds of outlandish costumes and parading the streets until late at night. A few years ago the custom of holding a sort of carnival on Hallowe'en was carried out in this city and people come from miles around to watch or participate in the event. The carnival habit, however, has been growing less perceptible during the last year or so, but nevertheless there will probably be a good crowd of revelers on the streets when the date comes around.

The way of observing Hallowe'en has changed greatly during the history of the holidays. It was first a great festival day for Druids in Britain and continental Europe, way before the coming of the Christian religion. Later on, when the legend of the walking abroad of ghosts and elves on Hallowe'en became popular in England, big bonfires were burned at night to keep away spooks, and the custom of bobbing for apples and roasting-nuts began to be followed, with fortune-telling and the divination of future husbands and wives for all the young people.

In our country, not so many years ago, Hallowe'en came to be the occasion for mischief and sometimes for the destruction of property. Gates were taken away and carried long distances, outhouses were tumbled over, windows were thoroughly soaped and the throwing of corn and cabbage was great sport for the youngsters. And probably there are few men in Rushville who cannot recall in the days of their youth, how they used to go out on Hallowe'en and frighten some timid maiden lady by applying a "tictac" to her window.

The name Hallowe'en was given to the evening of October 31, because it precedes All-Saints day, which falls on the first of November.

The even is now generally known as the eve of a Christian festival, but its ceremonies, as formerly observed long ante-date the Christian religion.

THE RACE FOR DREADNOUGHTS

How Experts Appraise Navies of Great Nations.

GREAT BRITAIN IS STILL FIRST.

Two American Warships, Utah and Florida, Are Largest In Service of Leading Powers, While the New York Will Excel Any Being Built.

Since the new American Dreadnought Utah arrived in port at New York to join her sister ship, the Florida, now nearing completion at the Brooklyn navy yard, naval men have been discussing with renewed interest the relative position of American sea fighters as compared with the navies of the other nations. While experts concede that Great Britain has the largest aggregate of warships, with either Germany or the United States second, it is asserted that the two new Dreadnoughts of the United States outrank in size and strength anything afloat.

The British battleships Lion and Orion will excel the two newest American ships, but neither of these is as yet in service. Germany also has a number of powerful Dreadnoughts in course of construction, but the largest German ship in commission is of less tonnage and efficiency than the Utah and Florida, which have displacements of 22,000 tons each as compared with the original Dreadnought of 18,000 tons. They take the lead over the Delaware and North Dakota, 20,000 tons each, which heretofore were the prize ships in the American navy. Besides leading the ships of all the great powers in size, they also bring Germany and the United States nearer together in the race for second place among naval powers.

Among the experts the original Dreadnought has become the accepted unit of sea fighting efficiency. Counting it as a unit of 100, the American battleship Delaware and her sister ship, North Dakota, have an efficiency ratio of 110 each, while the Florida and Utah have a ratio of 125 each. These ratios for American Dreadnought ships aggregate 670 as against an aggregate of about 700 for Germany. So Germany and the United States are separated by only a few points for position of second when the Dreadnought unit of fighting strength is the basis. On ships below the Dreadnought unit the scales are turned in favor of the United States.

The super-Dreadnought New York, whose keel was laid recently, will outrank in tonnage anything thus far built or under way in England and Germany. Her tonnage will be 27,000. The largest British ships under construction are those of the King George class, 25,000 tons, and the largest of the new German ships building are of 23,000 tons. The British designers, however, are planning the Queen Mary, 29,000 tons. The New York represents the largest warships being built, while the Utah and Florida are the largest in the service of any of the great nations.

HUGE BUTTERFLY.

Specimen Found in Brazil Is as Big as a Sparrow Hawk.

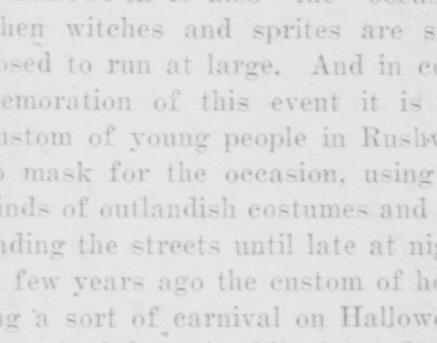

W. M. Mann and Frederick Baker, members of the Stanford Brazilian expedition who remained behind, have sent news from Madeira, on the Amazon river, of the discovery of a hitherto unknown species of the morpho, a huge butterfly. The new species is as large as a sparrow hawk and caused considerable fright to the members by flying toward them in an attitude of attack. When within a few feet of its enemy it strikes and soars to a height of twenty or thirty feet, returning to repeat the attack. Several large specimens of the insect have been preserved and will be further investigated upon the party's return to the campus.

The remaining members will travel up the Amazon for a distance of 500 miles and will gather specimens of the animals and plants all along the route. The river, after a hundred miles or so from the mouth, is so thickly infested with crocodiles and large gar that bathing in the river is absolutely impossible with any degree of safety. The crocodiles are of the larger species of the floating variety and are dangerous. Fresh water fish, such as carp and catfish, which in this country do not excel in size, on the Amazon attain the weight of from 300 to 500 pounds under the equatorial sun.

The struggle for existence of vegetation is indescribable, and the bank along the river is one solid mass of tangled vines, palms, mosses and orchids. It is impossible to set foot on the ground for a distance of a mile from the banks. Monkeys, snakes and parrots are the only animals which can exist in the dense clusters.

Family Record on Turtle's Back.

George L. Stillman, a business man of Westerly, R. I., was strolling about his farm, about a mile from the village, when he came across a big turtle which was sunning itself on the banks of a pond. He secured it and found engraved on its shell the initials of his grandfather, Adam Stillman, engraved in 1805. Further examination disclosed the name of another Adam Stillman, his great-grandfather, engraved in 1808, and the name of Paul Maxon, carved in 1793.

What's The Law.

On the face of the granting of a saloon license in Connersville yesterday afternoon it appears that the intent of the Proctor legislative liquor law had not been carried out. The law says that the commissioners of any county have the power to restrict the number of saloons to as small a proportion as one to every one thousand inhabitants.

The Rush county commissioners at the very outset restricted the number of saloons in ushville to one for every thousand inhabitants. We find by some few simple processes of multiplying and adding and following out the law as laid down in the Proctor statute that with seven saloons in Rushville there will be one for every 950.7 persons. The commissioners did not say that there should be one saloon for that number of persons but that there should be one saloon for every one thousand people and they were given power to act in that manner by the last Democratic legislature.

But now comes a local man who wants a saloon. A local attorney files a petition for a license to sell booze in his room before the county commissioners. The county commissioners refuse to grant the license as the number of saloons in the city have already reached the limit in Rushville, according to the commissioner's interpretation of the law. The attorney appeals to the circuit court for a license.

But he does not stop there. He promptly takes an appeal to the Fayette circuit court—reasons not stated—and he apparently gets better treatment. It is not improbable that the opinion of the judge of the Rush Circuit court had already been heard on that particular question by the men interested.

Then there is another deft little ease of juggling and shifting of responsibility when the ease arrives in the Fayette circuit court. The ease is heard by Judge Gray Saturday, October 7, and taken under advisement. Yesterday the ease was heard again by a special judge appointed by Judge Gray, who failed to return a decision in the ease.

Judge Gray might have been considerate enough at least to have given the ease some consideration before he heard it, and if he thought then that there would be too much responsibility attached, appointed a special judge at that time, and thus have saved the local men one trip to Connersville and some loss of time and money.

And then it does seem strange that a Brookville attorney should tell Rushville how many saloons she should have. But that's the law?

The rebel cause in China is believed to be waning. A judicious distribution of clerkships among the leaders will restore order.

From the tales of woe given by some of our captains of industry, the time is ripe to organize a Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Millions.

Dr. Wiley says that manufacturing ought to be prohibited in the cities. There is no doubt that the practice of manufacturing interfere badly with the moving picture shows.

Canada is grieving because they have 900,000 less people than they expected. It is evident that they do not know the elementary principles of the art of census taking up there.

Figures being produced to show that only one out of 86 murders in this country is executed, it is evidently much safer to commit homicide than the crime of track walking.

The Marion Chronicle finds the word proctor means "one employed to manage the affairs of another." Respectfully referred to Steve Fleming.

A New Jersey man has been arrested charged with stealing $100 worth of barrels from the Standard Oil company, but John D. may have left them around loose hoping someone would carry them off.

A Montclair, N. J. minister is fitting up his church with moving pictures. If this is generally done, progressive pastors will not find it necessary to stand on their heads to get an audience.

New York is stirred over the murderous hat-pin nuisance. Recollecting how we used to handle fish hooks in our boyhood, why not require the end of every hat-pin to be stuck into a big piece of cork?

In view of the attendance at the world's series games at Philadelphia, it is evident that quite a number of Quaker Cityites have missed their afternoon naps for several days running.

More than half the Yale foot ball team are disabled, but if the college authorities do not arbitrarily suggest that the boys should do a little studying, they may yet be able to line up against Harvard.

Mr. Taft has decided to extend his trip for two weeks additional. It looks very doubtful if he will ever again be satisfied to settle down and live the simple life in the White house.

There is a city ordinance which provides that leaves must not be burned before 8 a. m. or after 4 p. m. Little if any attention has been given to its enforcement in recent years but that is no reason why there should not be. It is a law and from the standpoint of good health and the comfort of the people it should be heeded and enforced.

What is monumental gall? Well, without giving the matter much investigation we should answer that it is when a patron of mail order houses solicits subscriptions of local merchants to help rebuild a barn destroyed by fire upon which he carried no insurance. Also when he requests a card of thanks in local papers which he has never patronized.

If farmers thinking of going to another locality or State will consider opportunities for profit through scientific agriculture, or if the term suits them better—better farming—they will think twice before letting the wiser man get hold of their land.

Farm lands can not fail to increase in value steadily, and as the farmer's investment increases he must adopt methods of farming that will make his investment profitable. He will thus become not the victim but the beneficiary of necessity. It is just this situation that has brought about the demand for reliable information on farming methods.

Although we now have quick transportation, telephones and automobiles, there is scarcely a farm in Rush county that does not have fruit and vegetables rotting on the ground while at the same time there are people who need or could use this supply of food. There are orchards, we understand, where the fallen apples may be had for the carrying away. One man is said to have turned a town loose on his pear trees. The person who can see a way of getting poor people to this food supply, or getting the food supply to the poor, at little or no cost, will be doing the public a great kindness.

The fellow in Chicago, who is making a living delivering coal, despite the fact that he has lost both hands, shames the most of us, or ought to. At least, a lot of the people who sit around most of the time and complain at Fate, ought to be ashamed of themselves in the light of the way in which this crippled man is getting through the world.

Both of the fellow's hands have been cut off at the wrist. But he does not seem to mind it. He has a team, which he attends himself, even harnessing it and feeding it and currying it. Then he drives to the car containing the coal, and with his two stubs of hands shovels the coal into his wagon, delivers it to the point where it has been ordered, carries it into the basement, and goes about his way contented. He earns about as much as the average teamster, and if any one has so far heard him complain at fate, it is not recorded.

Figures being produced to show that only one out of 86 murders in this country is executed, it is evidently much safer to commit homicide than the crime of track walking.

The Marion Chronicle finds the word proctor means "one employed to manage the affairs of another." Respectfully referred to Steve Fleming.

The Indianapolis Sun alludes to the theories and practices of the old guard of the Republican party as having proved "unfit for the government of the people of this country," says the Peru Journal. The organ of the bomb throwers is almost too contemptible to notice, but once in a while we can't conceal the fact that it annoys us. The above allusion is preposterous. The old guard of the Republican party has made all the legislation this country has had for fifty years and, far from having proved itself unfit, it has developed the most liberal country and most superb nation in the world. Our amazing prestige among the nations, our boasted freedom and our acknowledged industrial supremacy were not attained under an anarchistic nor an insurgent administration. What we are we gained through the agency of the old guard of the Republican party, and that, too, absolutely in spite of all the crazy notions of men like the editor of the Sun.

FROM THE SUBURBS.

We are all prone to carry our defects behind our backs, and that they say, is the reason why people always see them.

Of course that does not apply to the fellow you can see through.

It not only takes two to make a quarrel, but it requires all of their spare time and energy to keep it going.

You may not have noticed it but the open season for aviators is gradually drawing to a close.

Speaking of such things, after giving the matter all due consideration, we have arrived at the conclusion that Herr Weston had the only real safe and sane plan for getting from one coast to another.

Since the horse show has come and gone now is a good time to begin to make a list of things you ought to be thankful for.

And a lot of us can not understand why a Brookville attorney should decide that we shall have another saloon.

When they are not having war over in China, there's a famine on, so what's the difference.

We note in the newspapers that Sir Frederick Pollock delivered a lecture at Columbia University on the topic, "The Giants and the Gods." That gink must be strong for the Athletics.

FOR AGED PEOPLE

Old Folks Should be Careful in Their Selection of Regulative Medicine.

We have a safe, dependable, and altogether ideal remedy that is particularly adapted to the requirements of aged people and persons of weak constitutions who suffer from constipation or other bowel disorders. We are so certain that it will relieve these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that it shall cost the user nothing if it fails to substantiate our claims. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulatory tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowels, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity. Three sizes, 10c., 25c., and 50c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store. Lytle's Drug Store, Third and Main streets.

CHAMPION IS TO MEET EVERYONE

Newel W. Banks of Detroit, America's Best Checker Player, Challenges All Aspirants.

HE WILL BE IN GREENFIELD

Invitations Are Sent to Players in This and Adjoining Counties to Take Part.

Newel W. Banks of Detroit, Mich., known throughout the country as the champion checker player of America, will be here Thursday, October 26, and will meet all comers either in cross board of simultaneous play, says the Greenfield Reporter. Mr. Banks won the championship of America two years ago from Mr. Henderson by a score of four to three, while forty-three were drawn.

Special invitations have been sent to expert players located in Shirley, Knightstown, Carthage, Brookville, Connersville, and the representative players are expected from each place. Any player from any place will be welcome and will be given a chance with Mr. Banks.

Mr. Brown, the State champion, will also be present and play Mr. Banks. The morning and a part of the afternoon will be given over to cross board play. At night Mr. Banks will play an exhibition of simultaneous play with as many players as can be secured to play. It will be worth while to all who can make it convenient to see these games. No admission to any of these contests will be asked.

In addition to the above, Mr. Banks will contest six boards in simultaneous play blindfolded. If you enjoy a game of checkers, you should not miss this one exhibition.

Mr. Morrison has tendered the management the use of his office and all play may be seen there, and it is hoped that every one interested will feel free to avail themselves of the opportunity to witness these games.

Mr. Banks is also a chess player, and if there is one who would like to meet him in a game of chess, an opportunity will be given. In his simultaneous exhibition, Mr. Banks intends to make a record of speed and agrees to forfeit any game to his opponent should he fail to move within one minute's time.

TO TAKE TO THE ROAD.

After the first of next year Loyd's minstrels of Greensburg, which showed here the last three days of last week, will go on the road as a professional troupe. The company will be augmented by several other members and if the performances given here are to be taken as a criterion, the Greensburg organization should be a howling success.

IN CONSULTATION.

Connersville Examiner: Dr. Sexton of Rushville was called in consultation with Dr. J. R. Mountain on Saturday in regard to the case of Miss Minnie Pruden of East Connersville. Miss Pruden has been failing in health for some time and it was thought advisable by her physician to consult with the surgeon as to the cause of her continued illness.

Members of the Circle gave brief responses when they were called upon. Many of them have relatives who were Hoosier pioneers and they related some interesting incidents of the early days in this State when it was nothing more than a wilderness. Some humorous anecdotes were told of Indiana people who lived here when the State was on the frontier.

The interior of the Wooden home was decorated beautifully with autumn leaves and vines. The Misses Hazel Lyle, Lenora Wooden and Hazel Cox assisted the program committee, which had charge of the meeting, in serving the delicious refreshments.

Halloween is only seven days off and plans are in making for celebrating the evening of mystery and frolic. The novelties that have been brought out this season are many and they contain the jack-of-lantern, the black cat, the broom and the witch ideas with their hundred variations.

One may find materials for festoons in the Halloween colors of yellow and black, lanterns with glaring eyes and wide mouths belonging to the pumpkin, dusky feline, and the skeleton families are for the half lights that make the Halloween party more mysterious. There are many things to be pinned to the coat impel, and there are clever little jack-o'-lantern-jumping jacks to amuse the little people. Cat fans are cute, for when they are folded together there is only a head and tail on a stick, but when opened the much folded paper of the fan forms the body of a cat.

Masks, too, are in all the Halloween forms with pointed caps for a Mephisto added. Candies are made for the occasion and their decoration is of designs of Jack-o'-lanterns and witches. There are candlesticks in the form of sedate cats sitting up decorously. A hole in the head receives the taper. The Halloween designs are so fascinating that persons going into the shops and seeing them are tempted to give parties so they may buy and use some of the curious emblems of Halloween.

Nor will the parties be limited to the last evening of October, which is set apart for Halloween, for there will be luncheons and dinners and card parties. Tally cards and name cards are ready for the buyer, and with the candlesticks, candies and the many other things, a whole affair done in yellow and black will prove interesting for a hostess to prepare an for a company of friends to enjoy. A menu, too, in yellow and black is not difficult, for the caterer is prepared and so is the ice cream man and the confectioner, with everything in shape and color to carry out this Halloween idea.

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP A SUCCESS

Long Swing Has Cleared the Political Atmosphere.

STRENGTHENS TAFT'S POSITION

Even in the Very Few States in Which Political Factionalism Works to the Disadvantage of President Taft from an Anti-Convention Standpoint, He Stands Straight With the People on Election Day.

BY GUS J. KARGER.

Aboard the President's Special—Homeward Bound—President Taft is on the last lap of his long journey—with another shorter one in prospect.

The very fact that a shorter one is soon to follow the long one, convincingly attests to the fact that the latter has been a success from the president's viewpoint.

He has enjoyed every minute of it. It was his purpose to bring the people of the United States close to their president, and the president of the United States close to the people who placed him at the head of the nation. That purpose has been sub served. The other results of the trip, political in their character, are merely incidental.

Incidental as those results may have been, they have been none the less important. They have cleared the atmosphere. They have shown the real strength of the opposition that exists to the re-nomination of President Taft, and the cordiality of the support given the president by the people of the states in which some of this opposition is manifested by the leaders. In the few states in which political factionalism works to the disadvantage of President Taft from an anti-convention standpoint, he stands strongest as a candidate with the people on election day. Those who oppose, profess to be of a contrary opinion; but the information available from many sources indicates the untenability of their position. Many men who heretofore have identified themselves with a so-called insurgent propaganda, recognizing the real condition of affairs, are either remaining quiet, or taking their places on the Taft band wagon.

Assured of Approval.

His tour of the west has given President Taft much material for the forthcoming messages which he will send to congress, when that body re-assembles in November. He has been assured of the approval of the west, and middle west with regard to his tariff program, and no matter how close he may have had his ear to the ground, he has heard no rumblings betokening dissatisfaction. The president, on this tour, has had opportunity to study certain features of the conservation problem at first hand, and some of the practical questions that confront western communities have been fairly presented to him. In his speeches on different topics the president has at various times identified himself as a middle-of-the-road progressive—a man keeping between the reactionary who believes that everything that is, is right, and the radical, who believes that everything that is should be revolutionized. On the conservation question he takes the same kind of sane progressive stand, and his recommendation to congress will undoubtedly endeavor to preserve its rights to the present generation, without disregarding the duty that the country owes to those who are yet to come. His utterances on the subject have carried a message of hope to those who seek legitimate investment and who are honestly desirous of opening the locked-up homesteads of the country to cultivation, without offering the slightest encouragement to the men whose obvious desire is the exploitation of a rich country for solely speculative purposes.

The Railroads and the Trusts.

In other particulars his speeches on the western trip foreshadow the position he will take in his message to congress, more especially with regard to the railroads and the trusts. There is sufficient machinery in the law now to keep the railroads within the bounds prescribed. "We have put railroads under control," President Taft has said. "They now acquiesce in it. For a time they were defiant." No additional legislation is required to keep them on the highway of commercial morality and integrity. With regard to the trusts, he sees in the supreme court decisions in the Standard Oil and tobacco trust cases a complete return to the era of competition and he is determined that that status, thus re-established, shall be maintained. His hope is that "big business" will now realize that these decisions are bound to change the course and the tendency of business, and that the railroads, once defiant, they will become acquiescent. He favors the encouragement of business by encouraging the profit of the individual and by letting him have free scope within the law and do his business as he will. But certain laws known as the anti-trust laws are on the statute books, and he stands for enforcement.

There is no question of politics about it. If it should injure him politically, the president will abide by the outcome. But he is a sworn officer of the law, and as such he can shirk no duty which he assumed under his oath.

The Farm Brood Mare

By H. E. ALLEN, Animal Husbandry Department, Purdue School of Agriculture
Purdue University Agricultural Extension

Good type of 1,600-pound farm brood mares, give double returns by way of colts and farm work.

Our horse stock has been influenced and somewhat improved during the past few years by the campaign that is being conducted against the scrub, unsound and grade stallions. Through this work many farmers have been benefited and encouraged in the production of a higher class of horses. Pure bred, sound stallions have, to a great extent, crowded out the undesirable type of grades and scrubs in the more intelligent and up-to-date sections of the country. This has accomplished much good as evidenced by the appearance of a greater per cent. of high class, high priced horses on our farms and in the markets. However, it is a lamentable fact that, as yet, too many of our horses are unsound and undersized individuals, fitting into no market class and so commanding only very ordinary prices. This condition will continue to exist in spite of the use of pure bred, sound stallions until farmers discontinue breeding the undersized, unsound, mongrel mares that are found on so many of our farms.

While many farmers are beginning to appreciate the importance of the pure bred, sound stallion, the equal importance of using good, sound mares is not generally understood. Too often a mare is set aside for breeding purposes when by reason of unsoundness she is no longer fit for anything else. So long as this ruinous policy continues we will have a surplus of unsound horses on our farms and on the markets, keeping the average price of horses down to the minimum.

The Farmer's Type of Mare.
Market prices indicate an urgent demand for larger and better horses. Now, since the farmer must have horses, why not keep good, big, sound draft mares, which after all make the finest farm teams in the world? And besides, they will raise colts each year at little extra trouble and expense, the geldings of which will command high prices in the market that is making these urgent demands. If given a trial, any farmer will find such a policy a good profitable business proposition.

According to the accepted laws of inheritance, colts from unsound, undersized mares are just as likely to inherit the undesirable features of their dams as they are the same or any other bad qualities from their sires. It is necessary then that the wideawake, prosperous farmer keep his best mares, weighing not less than 1,400 pounds. Heavier ones would be better. They should be sound with plenty of good dense bone, and have gentle dispositions. They should always be mated with the best pure bred stallion available regardless of the service fee, for what is $5 or $10 in the price of a horse when the difference between colts from a pure bred and a scrub stallion is often from $50 to $100?

RAISE YOUR CALVES

By P. H. CRANE, Dairy Department, Purdue Experiment Station
Purdue University Agricultural Extension

Essential to Increasing Dairy Profits. Calves in Purdue Herd.

The methods followed by a great many of the farmers of Indiana are such that after years of farming their live stock is no better than it was when they began. This is especially true of a class of men known as dairymen. At present there is quite a distinction made in the use of the terms "dairyman" and "dairy cattle breeder." The dairyman should be a dairy cattle breeder, and vice versa.

The dairyman that depends upon other men to produce his cows will always have about the same grade of "stuff," and can never depend upon any increase in production, due to his own selection and breeding.

Too many so-called dairymen are merely dealers, who buy up large cows due to freshen in a short time. When these cows come fresh, the calves are vealed and the cows milked while being fattened, going to the block after a milking period of three to eight months. This method is very harmful to permanent dairying and puts a poor grade of beef on the market. Better results would be obtained if either beef or dairy cattle were kept for their specific purpose, instead of trying to make poor individuals serve the purpose of both dairy and beef animals.

If one expects to follow dairy farming, it is well to decide what breed of dairy cattle is best adapted to his particular conditions, and then, by the use of a good, pure bred sire of this breed, and by raising the heifer calves, he can soon build up a good grade herd that will be highly profitable as producers.

If the product of the dairy is cream or butter, the heifer calves may be raised largely on skimmed milk and grain without a great deal of expense.

The secret of raising calves by hand successfully is in taking especial care that the stalls and pails are kept clean; that the calf is not overfed; that there is no great change in the quantity or temperature of the milk fed the calf at each feed; that there is a chance for exercise where the calf has access to water and salt; and that the quarters are dry and well lighted and ventilated. If these precautions are taken at all times, there is not much danger of loss, but one exception may prove fatal.

Ground corn and oats makes an excellent grain supplement to the skimmed milk, and should be fed dry. Where a number of calves are being fed by hand, stanchions are very convenient. The calves can be put in their stanchions, as shown in the accompanying illustration, and fed their skimmed milk and grain, and after their mouths have dried, they can be allowed to run loose in the pen. Under this management they do very nicely and very seldom form the habit of sucking each other's ears.

Individual troughs for sows are best made square and heavy instead of V shaped. Then they do not lay in them and cannot root them around so much.

ONE WAY TO CUT COST OF LIVING

Farmers to Co-Operate With the Wage Workers.

MAY TRY OUT ENGLISH PLAN

Farmers' Educational and Co-Operative Union of America Proposes to Join With Union Laborers in Measure Designed to Cut Out Profits of Middleman by Bringing Producer and Consumer Together.

Indianapolis, Oct. 24.—One of the plans to reduce the high cost of living which will be laid before the delegate convention of wage workers which will meet in this city next Sunday afternoon, will be the formation of a joint corporation of producers and consumers, the stock to be held by the farmer and fruit grower and by the wage worker. A meeting of the committee appointed by Typographical Union No. 1 of this city, a short time ago, to devise ways and means to reduce the cost of living was attended by W. H. Brown of Spencer, representing the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, an organization affiliated with the A. F. of L.

Details of the plan which will be suggested to the convention have not been given out by the committee. It was the sense of the meeting, however, that the convention should have an opportunity to consider the co-operative plan. It is made plain by the committee that its plan in no way is to be regarded as forecasting the action of the convention, as all unions and all other wage workers who send delegates to the convention have been invited to suggest plans for reducing the cost of living.

Brown assured the committee that farmers and other producers will take an amount of stock in the proposed corporation equal to the amount taken by the wage workers or consumers. The plan conforms generally to the English co-operative plan. The scope of co-operation, however, it is said by the committee, would have to be worked out after a definite decision had been made to put the plan in operation. Under the plan the producer, through the co-operative society, would sell the food products to the consumer. It has not been decided, it is said, whether the committee shall recommend that a rebate system be used, or whether the society shall follow the dividend plan. Numerous other details, it is asserted, remain to be worked out before the committee lays the plan before the wage workers' convention.

SLEPT ON MONEY

At Least They Thought It Was Money Until They Found the Difference.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 24.—Clyde McClure, fortune teller, arrested by Terre Haute authorities in New Jersey, and soon to be returned here for trial, had a system by which it is alleged he swindled citizens here out of more than $10,000. When the victim appeared it is said McClure would ask them to put all their money in a bag, and, giving it to them, would tell them to sleep on it for a few nights, then return to him. On their return he would "investigate" the bag, and, returning it, would tell them to go back and sleep on it a few more days. Usually when they returned the last time McClure was gone, having removed the money and replaced it with iron washers and paper.

ENTHUSIASTIC BOY

Built a Flying Machine and Attempted Flight From Roof of Barn.

Hammond, Ind., Oct. 24.—Robert Burnett, aged nine, is in a critical condition as a result of attempting a flight from the roof of a barn in an aeroplane which he had made for himself.

Robert made a flying machine of pieces of a board walk, his mother's clothesline and sheets. The steering wheel was part of mother's washing machine. In his mother's absence he got the apparatus on top of a barn, seated himself in it and pushed off. He was found unconscious in the debris.

Faithless Husband Sent to Jail.

Richmond, Ind., Oct. 24.—Glen McClure twenty-years old, charged with the desertion of his wife, who is seventeen, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to jail for six months by Judge Fox in the Wayne circuit court. The couple were married less than a year ago, having eloped to Kentucky.

Ban on the Common Cup.

Greensburg, Ind., Oct. 24.—The board of health has decreed that the public drinking cup must go, and it has gone. Hereafter only those provided with individual drinking cups will be able to make use of the public drinking fountains here.

Fatal Crossing Accident.

Gary, Ind., Oct. 24.—Giorgi Frasanski, aged thirty-eight, was killed and John Kassman, aged thirty-two, seriously hurt when their buggy was struck by an interurban car at Twenty-third avenue and Broadway.

FOR AGED PEOPLE

Old Folks Should be Careful in Their Selection of Regulative Medicine.

We have a safe, dependable, and altogether ideal remedy that is particularly adapted to the requirements of aged people and persons of weak constitutions who suffer from constipation or other bowel disorders. We are so certain that it will relieve these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that it shall stantiate our claims. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regitative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowels, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity. Three sizes, 0c., 25c., and 50c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store, Lytle's Drug Store, Third and Main streets.

A HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

A Little Sage and Sulphur Makes Gray Hair Vanish—A Remedy for All Hair Troubles

Who does not know the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is thin or turning gray, get a bottle of this remedy from your druggist to-day, and see what it will do for you.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

THE DEADLY BLACK DAMP

Claims Many Victims In an Illinois Mine.

IMPRISONED BY A CAVEIN

Explosion of a Keg of Powder Ignited Black Damp in O'Gara Mine No. 9, Near Harrisburg, and Those Miners Who Were Not Killed by the Force of the Explosion Were Suffocated by Deadly Gases Which Filled Mine.

Harrisburg, Ill., October 24.—As a result of the explosion of a keg of powder which ignited black damp in O'Gara mine No. 9, a mile south of here, nine men were killed, ten seriously injured and carried up by rescuers and fifteen more were imprisoned by a cavein.

That more lives were not lost was due to the fact that the shift was changing when the explosion occurred. The explosion, although it occurred 400 feet down in the earth and was muffed by the strata above it, was heard here.

Several men, protecting themselves with cloths over their noses and mouths, were lowered into the pit and sent up the dead and injured. Two men, it was found, had been instantly killed, and were so terribly burned and torn that they could not at once be identified. Seven others sent to the surface were so badly injured they died within an hour.

Most of the miners employed by the O'Gara company are Americans. The mine is one of several owned in the field near here by the O'Gara Coal Mining company of Chicago.

After the rescuers had brought up the dead and wounded they attempted to reach the men caught behind the cavein, but were driven back by deadly gas. Dr. Charles A. Turner, surgeon for the O'Gara company, who went down in the mine to help in the search and to administer aid, was brought out almost lifeless from suffocation.

The position of bodies recovered indicates suffocation from black damp. Each man had his face covered with shirts and other available clothing.

The following bodies have been identified: Samuel Barnaby, Frank Steckster, Alfred Bowen, Chick Parks, Alfred Kane, George Austin, Edward Austin.

CHALLENGE DISALLOWED

Court Rules on Jury Qualification in McNamara Case.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 24.—Under the law and the evidence I am convinced that Juror George W. McKee is qualified to sit and the court rules that the challenge of the defense is disallowed.

In these words Judge Walter N. Bordwell, sitting in the case of James B. McNamara, delivered the first formal ruling in the matter of the qualifications of jurors and at the same time struck a severe blow at the defense. The challenge was interposed by the defense when McKee asserted that he had strong belief that the Times building was blown up by dynamite and that the belief was so strong that it would require evidence on the part of the defense to remove his influence.

The defense contended that under the law such a belief rendered a taxpayer subject to challenge on account of bias.

THE SUPREME COURT

Has Advanced a Number of Important Cases on the Calendar.

Washington, Oct. 24.—Contrary to general expectations, the supreme court did not hand down a batch of opinions Monday. A large number of motions were disposed of and many important cases advanced and set down for early hearing, among them the Union Pacific merger case and the cases in which the states are fighting to maintain their right to make rates in interstate traffic regardless of the federal control over interstate commerce. The court has advanced nearly all of the important cases involving railroads and set them for hearing early in the next year.

Kendallville, Ind., Oct. 24.—John S. Miller was run down and killed by a Lake Shore train at a crossing in this city.

ITALIANS MEET GRAVE DISASTER

Insistent and Mysterious Rumors at Malta.

BATTLE OF BENGHAZI A ROUT

Details of This Engagement Have Not Been Given Out Officially and the Secrecy of the Roman Government Seems to Bear Out Rumors of a Disaster to Italian Forces—Another Crisp Battle at Tripoli.

Malta, Oct. 24.—Insistent and mysterious rumors are in circulation here to the effect that the Italians have met with a grave disaster at Bengazi. One rumor says that in the fighting there lost 1,200 men, but this cannot be verified here.

Tripoli, Oct. 24.—A determined attack was made on the Italian lines of defense by a force of Turks and Arabs and for several hours there was continuous firing. The ships in the harbor threw shells at the attacking force which was finally repulsed, but if there were any casualties the number is not known. It is not believed that many on either side were either killed or wounded.

As the result of an Arab outbreak within the city yesterday afternoon, there was some wild firing, during which three Arabs were killed. Following the shooting 200 Turks and Arabs were arrested.

HINES DENIES IT

Says He Never Had Any Connection With Stephenson's Election.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 24.—Edward Hines, the Chicago lumberman, before the Stephenson committee, denied any and all stories which connected him with Stephenson's election, collectively and in detail. He had never assisted in the election of Stephenson nor conferred with him about it in any way. He said he had no quarrel with R. J. Shields and never gave him money nor authorized him to pay money to help elect Senator Stephenson. The questions asked by Senator Heyburn were searching, and when he was through there was no loophole left. Mr. Hines said that all he knew about the election of Senator Stephenson was what he had read in the newspapers.

The Hines-Stephenson story about a jackpot was started by two men in a Duluth hotel "joshing" where Dannie Haley overheard them, was the statement drawn from Haley on the witness stand.

A HYPNOTIC EYE

Woman Complainant Says Illinois Preacher Was Thus Possessed.

Sterling, Ill., Oct. 24.—Mrs. Kathryn Howland, accuser of Dr. Charles Raymond, Peoria pastor, whom she charges with forty specifications of immoral conduct with women of his congregation, asserted that the preacher makes women his dupes by means of hypnotism.

Mrs. Howland asserts that the preacher at one time traveled with a professor of hypnotism. There are very few women, she says, who can resist his eye, and no matter how much they may loathe him when out of his presence, he has but to glance at a woman to draw her to him.

Tried to Kill Madero.

Monterey, Mexico, Oct. 24.—It has become known that after the departure from here of Francisco I. Madero that an effort was made, when he arrived here last Thursday, to assassinate him. As Madero stepped from the train Pedro Carballo pulled a pistol from his pocket and stepped toward Madero, who was twenty-five feet away. Secret service men hurried the man to a prison, where he was kept secretly until yesterday.

Crampton of Delphi, editor of the Delphi Citizen, has been appointed to succeed him. The commission issued to Mr. Crampton will expire Jan. 1 of next year.

Had Planned Her Funeral.

Shelbyville, Ind., Oct. 24.—Despondent on account of failing health, Mrs. Benjamin Louden, aged forty-six, ended her life by taking strychnine. She was unable to talk when her husband discovered her condition. She showed him a letter which explained her action and gave full details for the funeral, even to the hour for the services. She leaves a son and daughter.
